HERE'S A TIP

Don't Use Salicylic Acid Powders for

The Department of Agriculture warns housekeepers against the use of preserving powders containing salicylic and boric acid.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

In the directions for use the housewife is told to fill the jar with the fruit or vegetables, cover with water, and add a teaspoonful of the powder. It is true that these powders may prevent the decay of the fruit or vegetable, but they also encourage uncleanness or careless work, and their excessive use may be attended with very serious effects. The healthful Salicylic acid is a medicine of the greatest value in acute articular rheumatism and certain other diseases. It is well known as a poisonous substance, and one of the evils which may accompany its use is derangement of the digestion. It is, therefore, plain that its extensive use in food may lead to disturbance of digestion and health.

It is entirely practicable to put up both fruits and vegetables in such a manner that, if not opened, they will keep indefinitely, by sterilizing the products by means of heat, and there is no excuse for running any risk by using preserving powders. The Department of Agriculture has issued the following Farmers' Bulletins on canning and preserving:

F. B. 263. Canned fruit, preserves and jellies.

F. B. 359. Canning vegetables in the home.

F. B. 521. Canning tomatoes at home and in club work.

These bulletins, which may be obtained without cost by applying to the division of publications of the department, give exact directions for canning and preserving foods without the use of preserving powders or canning compounds.

Bacon and Cheese Sandwiches.

Cut some very thin slices of two days' old white bread, and place on each slice of bread a half-inch slice of cheese (any preferred kind), and place a very thin slice of breakfast bacon on the cheese. Then put the slice of bread containing the cheese and bacon in a bread pan and place in a moderately hot oven and leave until the bread is toasted, when the cheese will be melted and the bacon will be crisp. Serve with sweet pickles. Eat at once.

Hotter Potatoes.

Cut potatoes in small cubes until one pint is prepared. Put these to boil in salt and water for ten minutes. Drain and add one cupful of hot milk. Cook until the potatoes are quite soft. Take the yolk of one egg well beaten, and one teaspoonful of melted butter, one tablespoonful of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper, and a little chopper parsley, and pour quickly into the potatoes, stirring while so doing, to prevent the egg from curdling. Serve on buttered toast and garnish with parsley.

Poor Man's Mushrooms.

Radishes have always been considered good food to eat raw. Try the following when mushrooms are at a premium: Peel and slice large radishes, and when you put your steak in the pan, turn in the sliced radishes and allow them to cook in the juice of the steak until quite brown. Before taking them out, put in a generous piece of butter. Season with salt and pepper. They can hardly be detected from the real article. Radishes are always very good when boiled as turnips. Boil until very soft, season, mash and cream.

Imperial Pudding.

Soak one cupful of teaspoonful of gelatin in one-quarter cupful of cold water for one hour. Cook one-quarter cupful of rice in one pint of water until tender, drain, and add one-half pint of milk, pinch of salt, one-half cupful of sugar, cook until mushy, then run through a "sieve" or strainer. Heat one-half pint of new milk to boiling point, stir in gelatin, and when rice is cool, stir in and flavor to taste. After combining the above materials, with one-half pint of thick cream very stiff, stir together and mold. Serve very cold with cream or chocolate syrup, with ground or chopped nuts on top of each slice.

Butterscotch.

One cupful brown sugar, butter, the size of an egg, one-quarter of a cupful of water. Boil these ingredients until it waxes when dropped from the spoon. While this is boiling, mix in a separate dish the yolks of two eggs, one pint of milk, one large tablespoonful of flour and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Pour this mixture slowly into boiling sugar, water and butter, and cook all till thick; pour into a crust baked previously, and finish the top with the beaten whites of the two eggs to which one-half cupful of sugar has been added. Brown and serve when cold.

SOME DISHES MADE ON GELATINE BASIS

A Dessert in Which State Macaroons Are Utilized to Advantage.

Gelatin plays an important part in many a recipe. A tasty dessert is made thus: Dissolve the contents of one envelope of granulated gelatin in one pint of boiling water; stir it to melt the powder and then pour it into a bowl and as soon as it starts to "beat" with a rotary egg-beater until it is light. Then pour in half a pint of rich sweet milk, a pinch of salt, two ounces of crushed state almond macaroons; if this is not put in on the ice, it will stiffen. Then add a few drops of sweet almond flavoring and one gill of granulated sugar. Wet a mold with water and oil and add red with the mixture; put it in the refrigerator to ripen.

With Fruit.

Fill individual glasses a little more than half with milk, fruit, fresh canned; drain off all juice; make one pint of orange or lemon gelatin as above, add cold water, strain through the fruit; serve very cold with cream and sponge cake.

Prune Delight.

Wash, soak and cook in only enough water to cover them one pound of good prunes; when they are cooked, add one pint of salt, two inches of stick cinnamon, grated yellow rind of an orange, one gill of brown sugar. As soon as the prunes are very soft, stir in one package of granulated gelatin previously dissolved in cold water. There should be one pint of liquid. Stir until melted. Mix with cream and soft gingerbread.

Tango Trousers.

They're of chiffon.

They're accordion pleated.

They're made of silk.

At the calf there's an elastic.

The trousers are suited to the elastic.

Below the elastic falls a sheer lace frill.

The frill may be beaded or embroidered with chiffon roses.

The frills should reach only to the ankles for conservativeness.

Those who desire the pantalo effect, have the skirt cut shorter.

ARE FUTURIST

GOWNS IMMORAL?

Staid London is in a quandary and Don't Know How to Do.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] London, June 10.

Futurist gowns are making staid old London sit up and take notice. Are they, or are they not, proper? It is not that they are short, or transparent, or reveal the figure (one hasn't any in them), or suggest beauty to a fascinating degree—all of these things some are ready to decry as immoral when they see them in a dress; but the futurist dress is guilty of none of these—it is merely wonderfully colorful—amazingly colorful, if you will.

Such colorful bright yellow skirts and bright green bodices—now aren't they immoral? Ask them doubtful, but it is evident that the discussion has put them in the class with the unforgotten "centipede" in "Alice in Wonderland." You remember?

The centipede was happy quite until he found for fun said: "Pray, which leg came after which?" This brought him mind to such a pitch that he was distracted in the ditch, considering how to turn.

"Cricket is recommended as the latest cure for 'catatonia.' In other words, neurosthenia; for it has been decided by neurologists that 'catatonia' is a disease of the nerves and not of the mind. Cricket is not a graceful game, but for this reason it may not be popular, but the suggestions concerning the treatment of nerve troubles by means of outdoor sports may increase the popularity of other outdoor games and pastimes. There are already 575 ladies' golf clubs in the United States, and many more will be added before the year is out. Lady golfers naturally avoid the cricket, but the game with which cricket can make no comparison.

"Wasplish women" is an old phrase that will probably be given a new meaning, for there is a fashionable material just on the market here for reproducing the wasp's body when made up in any dress that has a suggestion of a waist-line. While fashion has its pleasing follies, it is hard to understand an innovation like this.

the grandest picnic you ever heard of and made in the state and eat lunch under the trees, besides catching the biggest fish in the river, and having the loveliest time the world. Do you know that holidays are made for happy children? Grown people may try all they can to squeeze themselves into the day, but the whole thing is really a wonderful time invented for the pleasure and enjoyment of girls and boys, and grown people can only get on the very outside edge of your good time. Every body knows that Christmas and Halloween and Valentine's and May day and vacation just have happy girls and boys names written all over them, so today is your day. Do have a lovely, happy one and come dancing home from the party with all of your fingers and thumbs and feet, because you want to go to another one some other time. Write and tell me everything you are going to do on this holiday.

CHILDREN'S LETTERS.

I Certainly Did.

Dear Editor—Your letter was very interesting to read. I am sending a story, which I hope to see in print. It is called "The Green Tower." I think I will write about the Panama Canal now. What do you think? I hope you will like the extra page. There were some more stories in there to-day, which was very good. Did you receive my letter? I hope it is very interesting to you. It is published in the paper.

Dear Editor—I am very much pleased at our having the D. C. C. page in all the papers. We take the daily papers and the papers of the week. I think this will cause the members to take more interest in it. We want to get the daily papers as good as the Sunday ones. Congratulations, Elmer King, on winning the medal. I thought we had more time to think over it than we did, and then, too, I am sure that we will be better.
